Poet John Hegley was born in Newington Green at the Mildmay Memorial Hospital that used to stand on the south side of the Green. I asked John if he would write a column about his birthplace for Literary London, and was delighted when he phoned me a few weeks later to say that, instead, he had written a poem about the Green with accompanying illustration. ACG