

Body of Man, 84, Missing Three Days, Is Found in Snow

The body of Joseph Wojcicki, 84, of 212 Holly St., was found Wednesday night in a snow bank on baseball Diamond No. 2 in Houghton Park at the foot of Casimer St., police report.

Joseph Wojcicki Jr. told Lt. Francis M. Lee of the Southside Station his father had been missing since Monday when he left home wearing only light clothing and slippers. A recent stroke had left him with a speech impediment.

Donald Schrier, 16, of 98 Weaver St., noticed the body while taking a short-cut through the park.

Medical Examiner Edmund Gicewicz told Lt. Lee the victim apparently suffered a heart attack. He issued a certificate of death from natural causes.
